Wealthy Young Broker Reported "Alive and Well," Was Kidnapped From Home Feb. 12.

DENVER, March 1.—(P)—Charles Boettcher II, wealthy Denver broker, kidnapped February 12, was released tonight by his abductors and returned to his home at 10:15 p. m. (mountain standard time).

The Denver Post said he was freed at a representative of Claude K. Boettcher, father of the young broker, had paid $60,000 ransom to the abductors in a secret rendezvous near Denver.

Chief of Police Albert T. Clark denied ransom had been paid.

First reports were that young Boettcher was found in good health at East Thirty-fourth avenue and Franklin street, after being let out of a motor car at that point.

Officers Pursue Car.

Most of the press corps, entire force of Denver city detectives was in hot pursuit of the kidnappers, who were reported fleeing toward northern Colorado.

Officers of Adams county, not by Denver police to be on the lookout for a small car, attempted to set a trap that was sprung four miles south of Brighton, Colo., tonight shortly before 9 o'clock.

The car failed to heed an order to stop and the officers fired several charges of buckshot into it. Two men were in the car.

Two police cars were ordered out from police headquarters to pursue the machine.

Not at Home.

Immediately after his release young Boettcher went to a telephone and called a taxi to his home, police said.

Officers, upon learning of his release, rushed to the Boettcher residence to question him in the hope of learning the identity of the kidnappers and the place where he was held captive more than two weeks, but reported they did not find him there.

Jameson Grant, attorney, who has been one of the closest advisers of the Boettcher family in the case, verified the report that Boettcher was safe, but refused to say where he had been taken.

Asked if he was at the home of his father or his own home, Grant replied: "Not at home."

Friends of the family expressed the opinion that the kidnappers had taken young Boettcher away with them from the place at which the ransom was paid, to insure them that they would not be freed upon, and then dropped him off on the street corner where he was taken.

A cordon of officers was placed around the city as soon as Boettcher's release was reported.

SEIZURE OF JEHOL NEARLY COMPLETE AS KEY CITIES FALL

Japanese Capture of Lingyuan and Chihfeng Leaves Chinese Only Edge of Province.

By the Associated Press.

The Japanese army has swept away two of the great defensive barriers protecting the capital of the province of Jehol.

They have seized the cities of Lingyuan and Chihfeng, where the Chinese had been expected to put up their strongest resistance against the invaders. These cities control mountain passes leading to the capital.

Dispatches from the front reveal that only the southern fringe of the western mountain wastes of Jehol remains in Chinese hands.

At Nanking, the government of China announced it was making representations to Great Britain concerning the British arms embargo affecting both China and Japan.

The Chinese admitted that this embargo plays into the hands of the Japanese, who already are heavily armed, while China must depend on materials of war from abroad.

At Derby, England, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain said in a dinner speech that "no circumstances exist to allow us to allow this country to be drawn into war with Japan."

He was cheered.

TWO CHINESE STRONGHOLDS ARE CAPTURED BY JAPAN

SUCHUNG, Manchuria, March 1. (P)—The two great Chinese strongholds which blocked the path to Jehol, capital of Jeho province, fell to the Japanese yesterday.

Shortly after nightfall General Hattori Hattori's Fourteenth brigade entered the city of Lingyuan, only about 15 miles from the capital. Brisk fighting, the Rengo (Japanese) News Agency cabled, was to be allowed to draw into war with Japan.

It was reported.

2 Specials to Capital Leave Atlanta Today

Two special trains of 15 cars each, loaded with Georgia friends and supporters of the president-elect, will leave Atlanta today for Washington to attend the inaugural of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Both will travel over the Southern railway and will follow the Crescent limited, leaving the Terminal station at 12:05 o'clock.

The first special will carry Governor Eugene Talmadge and his staff, members of the senate and house of representatives and a number of distinguished Georgians. The second train, which will be made up at Columbus, Warm Springs and Greenville, will carry the president-elect's friends from that section. Adjutant General Lindley Camp is in charge of the first train and Mayor Ed Doyle, of Warm Springs. Dr. R. B. Gilbert and Judge H. R. Revill, of Greenville, and J. Hope Tigner, of Atlanta, are in charge of the second special.

COTTON POOL BILL PASSES SENATE, SENT TO HOOVER

Measures Rushed To Lighten Debt Burden; Bankruptcy Reform Goes to White House.

WASHINGTON, March 1. (P)—With anxious eye on its March 4 deadline, Congress today bent resolutely to its task and sped toward enactment a variety of legislative proposals intended to aid hard-pressed individuals, railroads, farmers and municipalities.

An uncertain fate tonight awaited the Smith cotton relief bill at the White House.

The measure, intended to raise cotton prices through a combination acreage reduction and pooling plan, was sent to President Hoover with completion of congressional action.

Administration senators expressed doubt that the bill would be signed, while supporters of the measure, including Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, its author, claimed they had reason to believe it would be signed.

The bill was sent to the president early in the afternoon after the senate accepted without a record vote and with only a few audible "no" amendments which had been tacked on by the house.

During the brief debate, Senator King denied Utah denounced the proposal as tending to "perpetuate the evil that has grown up under the farm board" and as "projecting the government again into the buying and selling of commodities."

Smith and Senator McCallum, democrat, Tennessee, urged its approval, the former declaring it "may be the beginning in the break in the deadlock of the commodity price depression."

Those predicting a veto of the bill based their belief on the fact that all republicans in the house except those in cotton textile centers, voted against it.

The house passed it yesterday by the narrow margin of five votes, or 182 to 183.

Under the bill, if cotton planters cut their output by 30 per cent they would be permitted to share in the pooling of federal-financed cotton equivalent to the amount of their reductions. The benefits are expected to come from higher prices resulting from the curtailed output.

All government-financed cotton except that held by the Red Cross would be taken into the pool, including 1,500,000 bales owned by co-operatives and 710,000 held by the agriculture department.

Roosevelt Begins Trip To Capital and New Job

President-Elect Silent on Date for Special Session as He Leaves Hyde Park Home En Route to Washington.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

NEW YORK, March 1. (P)—Through cheering lines of neighbor New Yorkers, Franklin D. Roosevelt motored down the Hudson river valley tonight, on the first stage of his trip to the White House.

Reaching his New York city home at dusk, the president-elect received a group of important visitors before turning to the final chores of packing for tomorrow's train ride to Washington.

William H. Woodin, the new secretary of the treasury, met Mr. Roosevelt with a fresh report on the financial situation. He was as cheerful as usual after his Washington visit.

Joshing with newspapermen about his meeting with Mr. Woodin, the light-hearted president-elect said: "We were talking about a place for him to stay in Washington."

The two are undoubtedly watching the economic situation but show no signs of apprehension on their part.

The president-elect has not revealed his program at all, holding fire until after Saturday's inauguration, but there is a growing conviction among his intimates that he is prepared for swift action.

An early session of the new congress undoubtedly will be called by him as he is watching first the fast-moving developments of the closing seventy-second congress which goes out of existence on Saturday noon.

Until then he will make no announcement about a special session.

The regular round of meetings he and Senator Hull, of Tennessee, the new secretary of state, have been holding with the representatives from foreign countries also is believed to proceed.

It now seems that war debts relief will be definitely laid aside until Roosevelt sees what the other nations are ready to do in the way of correcting world economic conditions.

On Monday, two days after his inauguration, the next president goes into conference with the 48 state governors on ways of slashing government costs and taxes.

Other officials who were invited to the Roosevelt home tonight included Jesse L. Straus, of New York, mentioned as a probability for the diplomatic corps either at Paris or Havana; and Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, N. C., publisher, who was secretary of the navy when Roosevelt was president.

State troopers piloted the Roosevelt motor caravan down the winding road that parallels the Hudson from New York to New York.

Going over the brow of a hill at the entry to New York, a veritable army of motorcycle police took up the road that parallels the Hudson from New York to New York.

The bill was completed with the house sitting as a committee of the whole. It will be perfected, adopted and sent to the senate Monday.

In approving the appropriations bill, the house voted that the whole bill be slashed more than $1,000,000 of the 1932 and 1933 appropriations but upheld by almost $1,300,000 the recommendations of the budget commission.

"I would be glad to get a one-month lease," he said.

Mr. Roosevelt added that Hyde Park was the family home henceforth and that he would return to the estate on the Hudson river for his summer.

On the way to the house, he was met by Senator Hull, personal secretary, accompanied him in the automobile from Hyde Park here.

Late tomorrow, the next president and his family and several of the newly-appointed official family board a special train for the ride to Washington and the White House.

Before leaving Hyde Park, Mr. Roosevelt

HOUSE APPROVES APPROPRIATIONS FOR NEXT 2 YEARS

Measure Carrying $9,882,250 for Each Fiscal Year Passes; Auto Tag Bill Up Today.

An appropriation bill, calling for expenditures totaling $9,882,250 in 1934 and the same sum in 1935, was approved Wednesday by the house of representatives.

Approval of the bill opened the way for a fight on the house floor on the automobile license tag measure, which will be taken up on the first thing this morning under an invocation of the rules approved Wednesday.

Aid of Ford Traveled 500 Miles 'To Get Some Sleep,' He Explains

DETROIT, March 1.—(AP)—Still Mr. Ford's general secretary was missing, were seeking frantically throughout Detroit Monday night, he slept quietly in a Saginaw, Mich., hotel. Then, after apparently aimless wandering in central Michigan, he registered Tuesday night at the Traverse City hotel, got "a few hours sleep," and telephoned his office. Ford officials said, Liebold had been working "day and night" on his employer's plans for easing the Detroit financial situation and had "appeared to be under a strain." They said he would get uninterrupted rest and sleep at his home here. "I think that after a few days of this rest I'll be some good to Mr. Ford and myself," he said.

Thus, after a state-wide search that ended late last night in a Traverse City, Mich., hotel, 276 miles to the northwest, Liebold explained the mystery of his disappearance at 11 a. m. Monday.

POLICY DEFENDED BY EXCHANGE HEAD

Whitney Disavows Responsibility of Wall Street in "Sell Outs."

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP)—An affidavit put forward "no was the answer of George W. Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, to suggestions made to him by the market place functions.

His views were expressed to the Senate banking committee after it had received testimony that a $10,000 loan had gone from National City Company to John Ramsey, general manager of the port of New York authority.

Ramsey was said to have borrowed the money after the National City Company had participated in underwriting a $66,000,000 port of New York authority bond issue in March, 1931.

A statement on his behalf, however, insisted Ramsey thought it came from Edward F. Barrett, vice president of the National City bank and an old friend, as a personal loan.

It is reported by sharp quotes from Ferdinand Pecora, chairman of the Senate banking committee, and Senator Brothman, Republican, Iowa. Whitney, tall and powerfully built, said he saw no reason to vary the present system of listing stock for sale on the exchange, although he agreed "we have to accept the oath of those promoting it as to the fairness of the market."

Brothman Quizzes Whitney.

Brothman led the questioning from syndicate and pool operations in the past to questions on "how shall we get out of the depression." At one point, he told the exchange head: "Don't you know that the service maintenance operations (through syndicates) are in violation of the anti-trust laws?"

"I am no lawyer, senator," smiled Whitney.

"Weren't values of securities listed on the exchange inflated in the boom years of 1927, 1928 and 1929?" Peoria asked.

"Yes," Whitney said.

Whitney denied responsibility.

"Well, don't you think it was the responsibility of exchange officials to issue warning to that effect? Don't you think that was your responsibility?"

"I do not," Whitney said. "We are a market place, not a place for the evaluation of securities. Besides, I think if I had issued any warning in those years you mention that I would have been laughed at."

As a result of the $10,000 loan was traced to Dr. E. C. Sylvester, vice president of the National City Company, and Barrett.

Sylvester said "frankly" in that all those years with the company that he recalled "no similar cash loan" and he also agreed that the company's books failed to show how the item was used and was charged on the ledger to syndicate expense.

Barrett said Ramsey was an "old friend" and that he wanted to help him out of a "jam."

WOMAN FILES SUIT AGAINST NATIONAL CITY

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—A suit charging the directors of the National City bank with forming a conspiracy to "misappropriate and mismanage the property and assets" of the bank was filed in supreme court today by Mrs. Anna Bashlow, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who said she owned $12,000 worth of National City stock. The bank's attorney, George F. Weinrib, said the action was based on testimony before a senate subcommittee of Charles E. Mitchell, who resigned Monday as chairman of the bank, and Hugh B. Baker, who resigned as president of the National City Company.

The complaint, after citing a number of alleged negligent acts by the directors, asks that the damages suffered by the bank because of these alleged acts be determined and the directors held financially responsible.

The complaint seeks an accounting from the directors and a decree requiring the National City Company and the City Bank Farmers Trust Company to pay over to the bank all of the assets and property they are alleged to have received from the bank in various deals.

POLICE PURSUE PROBE OF HENDERSON KILLING

County police Wednesday continued their probe of every available angle in the murder of Mrs. Sam Henderson and the wounding of her husband and their baby, while Henderson and the child were reported recovering at Grady hospital.

Cal Cates, one of the county police officers investigating the affair, was called to the hospital Wednesday by Henderson, who told him that in reviewing the facts of the murder in his mind he remembered the negro who shot his wife and himself was also carrying an iron bar beneath his arm. This information, he said, was offered in the hope that it would be of some value.

The charges resulted from the attempted slaying of Father Glasser at his home here early this morning.

Two charges from a shotgun were fired at the priest.

Evidence was insufficient, the magistrate said, in dismissing the case.

CHICAGO, March 2.—(AP)—A cook was arrested by secret service agents today as the writer of a letter to Giuseppe Zanbara at the county jail in Miami.

Callahan said the letter was in code but that mentions of Roosevelt, Ma; or Anton Cermak and President Hoover's home at Palo Alto, Cal., were deciphered.

The letter was intercepted by Ma; and associates today, Callahan said.

Rahner was said by the secret service chief to have admitted knowing Zanbara, but denied writing the letter.

Russia Still Enemy

No Justification for Soviet Recognition, Ex-Secretary Asserts.

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—Bainbridge Colby, former secretary of state who officially stated the American attitude in refusing to recognize soviet Russia, declared today that nothing had happened since then to justify a change in policy.

"Our refusal was predicated upon the fact that Russia was an enemy state," he said.

"Despite denials and the concealments and disguises employed by as subtle a propaganda as the world has ever seen, this enemy continues to be the foundation of soviet foreign policy."

His statement was made in a letter to Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, who queried last week if there were any "new facts" calling for a departure from the United States policy on soviet-recognition.

This was denied. Wednesday, Senator Sisk served the commissioners with a subpoena to appear as a witness at today's session, and it is expected that he will be called upon to testify at the session this afternoon.

Adams to "Fight."

Commissioner Adams Wednesday issued a statement in which he said he "would start putting up a fight."

The commissioner has attended all of the hearings held by the committee and has attempted to question any of the witnesses, though he was asked if he desired to do so by the chairman of the committee.

Wednesday the house approved its appropriations bill, reducing the department of agriculture to be reduced from their present figure of $225,000 a year to $100,000. There also is pending a bill which would abolish the office and set up a division of 10 long-term fertilizer inspectors to conduct the work of transfering the functions of the department to the extension division of the University of Georgia and to the State College of Agriculture.

Adams Makes Statement.

In connection with the activities of the Sisk committee, Commissioner Adams Wednesday issued the following statement:

"I have been sitting supinely by attending two and three investigating committees a week for more than a month. I have not cross-examined a witness and have not placed a single witness on the stand. Scores of witnesses have testified and while many of them have had imaginary grievances, yet, not one has said I sold him or her a job.

to avail myself of the services of these lawyer friends and shall appear before the committee at the next meeting ready to repel the attack made upon me. I expect to have every employee of the department brought before the committee to tell whether or not they bought their job. I expect to follow up evidence with witness to show the real parties at interest in this investigation.

"I have every confidence in the fairness of the members of the committee and that they will afford me full opportunity to now present my side of this controversy."

Votes for Convention

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 1.—(AP)—The Senate committee today gave a favorable report to the Mullins bill calling for a state convention to be held here August 22 to reject or ratify the proposed repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The favorable report was given after the committee had tabled, 7 to 3, an amendment by Senator Darden, of Coosa, to increase the number of delegates from 47 to 151.

The bill will be given second reading tomorrow and take its place on the calendar.

'MACBETH' ENJOYED BY LARGE AUDIENCE

Combining acting ability with an unusually clear understanding of the roles, James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce and their company of Shakespearean Players presented "Macbeth" Wednesday night at the Fulton High school auditorium. The company was brought to Atlanta under the auspices of the Oglethorpe Players Club.

The age-old performance of the ambitious Macbeth was interpreted sumptuously and intelligently against an attractive background of costuming and effective lighting. A large audience found the presentation well worth its while.

The players, at a matinee Wednesday afternoon, presented "Julius Caesar."

Hapeville Salaries Tied Up by Petition

An effort to restrain Mayor Quincy Arnold, of Hapeville, and the city clerk, Hubert McWhirter, from paying out city salaries was made Wednesday by Frank E. Artaud, of Hapeville. Judge E. E. Pomeroy in superior court failed to grant a temporary injunction but cited the defendants to show cause why a permanent injunction should not be granted. The hearing is set for Saturday.

Artaud names the mayor, the clerk and the Fire and County Insurance Company, McWhirter's bondsmen, as defendants in the action. He alleges that no salaries may be paid under the state constitution unless the sal-

Manslaughter Charged To Gun Trap Owner

OAKDALE, La., March 1. (AP)—A gun trap attached to the henhouse door of Randolph Plumlee was found in a hotel room here today shortly after a man identified by police as his brother, Walter Clifton, frenzied and nude, was subdued while running wildly up and down the hotel halls. Walter admitted choking his brother to death, police said.

Detective Inspector Acosta immediately communicated with Daytona Beach police who told him Walter formerly was an inmate of the state hospital for the insane at Chattahoochee, and had been released last summer.

Salaries are audited and approved at the end of every year by the city council. He alleges that the salaries for 1933 have not been fixed in this manner, and alleges further that the city has no money in the treasury to pay salaries nor has any provision been made to raise the money.

Two Senators Back U. S. Attorney Rivals

WASHINGTON, March 1. (AP)—Rival candidates for the place of federal district attorney for the southern district of Georgia are being backed by the state's two senators.

Senator Russell, former governor and the junior senator, told newspapermen today he was sponsoring Judge Sexton Daniels, of Claxton, for the place.

Senator George, his senatorial senior and colleague, he said, is sponsoring Howell Cone, of Statesboro.

Russell added that the qualifications of both would be submitted to the justice department and the decision reached there as to whom to recommend.

"There is no personal feeling between us over this matter," however, Russell continued. "I'm just committed to one man, while Senator George has another, an old friend."

DETECTIVE CLAIMS 'LAW' FOILED HIM IN LINDBERGH CASE

CLEARFIELD, Pa., March 1. (AP)—John J. Devine, Johnstown private detective who worked "under cover" for several months on the Lindbergh kidnapping case, testified in his trial for abduction today that he could have solved the mystery "within two weeks" had not the law stepped in and upset Devine and seven others are on trial, charged with abducting Garret Schenck, Hopewell (N. J.) fish peddler, and holding him prisoner in a mountain shack for nearly three months.

The detective said his solution of the crime would have involved the fish monger. Schenck was released last September 3 after Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown, learned he was held. He claimed he was lured to the mountain shack on a pretext and quizzed about the Lindbergh kidnapping and murder.

He has steadily maintained that he knows nothing about it.

Devine testified today that he could have solved the mystery "within two weeks" had not the law stepped in and upset

SENATOR GLASS' WARNING.

The warning of Senator Glass that the loan policies of the federal government are bringing the country closer to a condition of socialism is a timely caution of the dangers involved in a continuation of the treasury till-tapping.

Only a comparatively few years ago a nation-wide protest was aroused by the appropriations of what was termed "the billion-dollar congress." Now scarcely a week passes without the glib suggestion on the floor of congress for the appropriation of sums running anywhere from a half billion to a billion dollars to finance "relief" projects which are not only generally impractical but which put the government further and further into conflict with the business and financial interests of the country.

Hundreds of millions of dollars have been squandered in abortive efforts to "help the farmer," other hundreds of millions have been poured out through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and now the suggestion is made for the appropriation of $600,000,000 to aid mortgage holders carry those who have borrowed from them.

Seemingly unthoughtful of what will be the situation when pay day comes, the hue and cry has been to "let Uncle Sam do it," until we have reached a point where state governments are being stripped of their proper responsibilities and duties, private business is being hamstrung by governmental interference and federal taxes are soaring sky high. As Senator Glass well says, "we are becoming a nation of mendicants."

It is not surprising that Senator Glass and other soundly-posted members of congress are warning that it is time to stop and consider what the situation will be when the day of reckoning comes.

The principle of state's rights has been trampled under foot as never before in the usurpation by the federal government of not only the rights but the responsibilities of the state governments. Instead of the states caring for their own problems, as they should, the federal till has been thrown wide open and a huge golden stream of the taxpayers' money has flowed to every section of the country.

Never in the history of the world has any country indulged in such a governmental spending orgy and, unless, as Senator Glass warns, it is brought to an end, we will soon find ourselves face to face with socialism.

BACHMAN GOES TO SENATE.

The appointment by Governor McAlister, of Tennessee, of Nathan L. Bachman, of Chattanooga, to the place in the United States Senate made vacant as Senator Hull becomes secretary of state is an honor well bestowed.

No finer type of citizen or public man is to be found in the United States than Judge Bachman, whose distinguished career has made him one of the outstanding men of his native state and of the country.

He is the nestor of the Chattanooga bar, is a former justice of the supreme court of Tennessee, and in every line of endeavor in a long and an honorable career has rendered distinguished service. No man is held in higher esteem, nor more generally beloved by the people of his state, than Judge Bachman.

He is ideally qualified to represent his state in the senate from the standpoint of ability, character and long experience in public service. He will undoubtedly become one of the outstanding figures of the senate.

In naming this distinguished and able Tennesseean, Governor McAlister not only honors the state, but he has done a service to the whole country.

SOUTHERN BUSINESS GAINS.

The definite and undeniable evidence of a business upturn in the South, equally affecting trade, industry and finance, are ample grounds for a comforting and encouraging increase in confidence.

Prices of raw products and manufactured commodities are still low, but the increase in sales and industrial activity are an unmistakable indication of the way the economic winds are blowing.

Federal reserve bank reports covering business activities throughout the south during January and early February show definite improvement in credit, business and agricultural conditions—outstanding among the gains recorded being those made by retail and wholesale trade.

Wholesale trade and textile manufacturing registered, during the period covered by the report, the largest comparative increases in three years.

This increase is particularly encouraging in that it conclusively shows that the overstocks of manufactured commodities which existed three years ago have been exhausted and that our mills, factories and mines must increase their production to meet the demand.

The South Atlantic states have not suffered from the depression to the extent of other sections of the country. Businessmen coming from the north and east to this section are amazed at conditions here, both in the cities and the agricultural sections.

The impregnable soundness of our economic system, based on the wealth of our agricultural products, the enterprise of our merchants, and the high standards of efficiency and ethics of our financial leaders, has made it possible for this section to offer greater resistance to the economic disturbance.

It is not surprising, therefore, that our people are confident of the future and are showing that confidence by the increased business reported by the federal reserve.

WASTED LIVES.

Examination by the National Safety Council of automobile accident records in every state in the Union during the past 15 years reveals that in the states which have enacted drivers' license laws the deaths from motor crashes have been reduced 31 per cent below what they would have been if the rate had followed the increase in states without such laws.

The St. Louis Times and Star observes that the results of this investigation "leaves nothing of the case against a drivers' license law except the desire of reckless, drunken or otherwise irresponsible drivers to go on driving and killing, killing and driving, as long as the state will let them."

On the basis of the 31 per cent reduction in fatalities in states having license laws, automobile deaths would have been decreased in Georgia by nearly 2,000 during the past 10 years. The waste of these lives, representing every class of our citizenship, is attributable to the failure of the state legislature to provide the protection which has been proved effective wherever tried.

Automobile crashes are now taking between 600 and 700 lives annually in Georgia. The experience of other states proves that 200 of these lives would be saved by the enactment of a drivers' license law.

It will be well for the members of the present legislature to bear in mind that if they refuse to approve the bill now before them, the responsibility for the needless sacrifice of these lives will rest upon their shoulders.

If a wise crack is so darned wise, why does it get itself stolen so often?

The reason the self-righteous never do wrong is because anything is right if they do it.

Yet our fathers honored the useful producer and despised the useless consumer.

Gifts to a president include almost everything except the gift of pleasing Mr. Borah.

That Muscle Shoals dream is good. Now if only we could utilize every idle dam this era has developed.

There's one way to beat it. You can quit imposing silly taxes on yourself and save enough to pay the others.

A recent magazine article describes the world's best milking machine—except, of course, the holding company.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

"Shadows Above Europe."

Whatever opinions one may have on Signor Mussolini's political creed, it must be conceded that he is a realist and that he never hesitates to tell the truth, as he sees it, even if the truth hurts. This is the wisest course a statesman can take. To hide the reality, to hush, to smooth over a grave situation with fine phrases any clever journalist can do that. But that sort of tactics do not help in the least.

Speaking to a newspaperman in the Parisian journal, Intransigent, Mussolini referred to the work he had undertaken in the Pontine marshes. The soil has been dried up and rows of villages are arising in this area which was formerly infested with pestilential malaria vapors, so that no human habitation had been possible for nearly a thousand years. As Mussolini outlined his program for the future, he noticed that the French reporter grew enthusiastic about it. The journalist, in fact, said so in response to a question of the Duce. And then Mussolini said: "Of course, these great public works are all very well and we are not alone in undertaking them. Every country is doing work similar to that undertaken during the crisis. But we must not be satisfied over such work."

"How can that be done?" stammered the French reporter completely taken aback.

"In the first place," said Mussolini, "some men ought to sit around a table and talk frankly. I mean frankly."

The Duce added: "There is no minimum wage, no labor, no coming conference and industrial world with publicity. But four or five representatives of the big nations sitting down and talking without reserve than all the streams of palaver. But remember well what I say," he added one more: "If the shadows above Europe and the world are to be dissipated, it is time to act, there isn't a minute to lose. If we don't succeed in talking frankly, events will talk to us."

History of the Future.

A vivid picture of the possible political history of England during the next 10 years was painted by Professor Hans Laski at the Oxford Luncheon Club. Professor Laski gave a suggestion of reality to his prophecies by asking his hearers to imagine he was reading from a new edition of Professor Tavelyan's "History of England," published with notes by his grandfather in 1928. Thus Professor Laski, speaking in the manner of a historian, foresees:

"The motion picture industry has been milked dry by parasites and incompetents and the stockholders have been left holding the sack."

"Depression is only an incident—a convenient alibi for those responsible for sending one of America's greatest businesses into wholesale bankruptcy. We are facing a new era and the relatives and incompetents who have been feeding at the trough of gold will be lost in the shuffle. It is unfortunate that we have come to this realization at such terrific expense. The days of wanton waste and gross inefficiency have passed. The industry, if it had been conducted along business-like lines, could have avoided the current receiverships which is now claimed, are the justifiable results of a great calamity."

"Now we must get back to fundamentals and rebuild the industry from the bottom up. Creative ability must be recognized for its true worth and never again become the pawn in a game of high finance and stock manipulation."

Laski denounced in his speech the "growing practice of producers to glorify smut and immorality on the screen. We must either disintegrate the master minds who select our film themes or displace them entirely," he said. "Many of Hollywood's best writers have revolted against the current studio taste for vulgar stories, knowing the industry is headed for further trouble if this condition persists."

Ramsey MacDonald refusing to join a coalition, suggested to the king that the country not realize the result of a socialist government.

Newly-elected parliament consequently dissolved and national government returned.

Lloyd George losing his seat owing to obscenity of policy, accepted an easement.

The London unions council declared general strike.

DEMOCRATS READY TO ELECT SPEAKER

Rainey-McDuffie-Byrnes Hold Spotlight on Eve of Party Caucus.

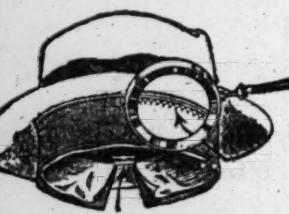

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, March 1.—Conflicting claims of victory by three leading candidates for speaker marked the final day of campaigning as house democrats prepared to meet in caucus tomorrow afternoon to select a successor to Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, who Saturday will become vice president.

So close is the contest that it is difficult to make a definite prediction of the outcome, although the situation may be clarified by developments before the caucus gets under way. On the other hand, it is easily conceivable that a deadlock may ensue, in which case anything may happen. Twenty-four hours in advance of the balloting the contest was expected to be between Representative

Byrnes, of Tennessee, chairman of the appropriations committee. Several others will be given complimentary votes on the first ballot, including O'Connor, of New York; Crosser, of Ohio; Cullen, of New York, and Rankin, of Mississippi, but none of these is expected seriously to figure in the fight.

Rainey and McDuffie doubtless will show greater strength on the early balloting, with the Tennessee member taking a prominent part. But in the event of a deadlock Representative Byrnes may loom large as a compromise between the two. Should such a deadlock develop it would not be surprising if an effort were made to have the caucus get entirely outside of the house membership and propose a new name. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, 1928 presidential candidate, Constitutional authorities have stated that such a course is proper. Thus far, however, no concerted movement to this end has been launched, party leaders proceeding on the idea that one of the Rainey-McDuffie-Byrnes triumvirate will be selected.

The big New York delegation, 29 strong, may prove to be the deciding force in the contest. Tonight there was no indication how the Tammany group will go after the first ballot, which will show complimentary vote for Representative Cullen. Tammany, realizing the importance of its bloc, is said to be dickered with the leading southern delegations, having an eye on the floor leadership or the office of party whip.

Efforts to inject the sectional issue into the speakership campaign have come to light during the last few days.

Friends of Representative Rainey are said to have circulated literature among southern delegates members from the east and middle west, supporting his candidacy over the two southerners on the grounds that the south already holds a commanding position in the committee organization of the house.

Members of the Georgia delegation will meet in a caucus of their own tomorrow afternoon just prior to the main democratic meeting. Whether they will agree to stand solidly behind one of the principal candidates remains to be seen. Heretofore they apparently have been fairly well divided. Constitutional delegations of the state group in the new congress will be the chief purpose of the caucus.

Rainey has seemed to occupy the strategic position in this race for a long time. He is at present floor leader. He hails from Illinois. He is the ranking democratic member of the important appropriations committee. McDuffie is reported to have the influence of Speaker Garner back of him. There also are a number of northern democrats, who, not being in the running for speaker themselves, would be glad to see McDuffie, a southerner, placed in that position so that one of these northern democrats might be made floor leader or chairman of the ways and means committee.

There were rumors about the capital today that a motion would be made to have secret ballots in the election of a candidate for speaker. Such a motion could be adopted by a majority vote of the members. If it were made and prevailed there would be no record of how the members voted, where the Tammany votes went on any ballot.

The usual custom and one that has prevailed in the republican and democratic delegations, in which the selection of candidates for speaker, is to have the balloting in the open, with members declaring their preference for candidates by name. It is said, however, that a number of the members today are not anxious to be "put on the spot" in this matter of selecting a candidate for speaker and for that reason they may favor a secret ballot.

Andy Messenger Joins Cracker Holdouts as Clubs Start Training

"Say It Isn't So," Chorus the Ball Hawks

It becomes more and more evident that the baseball players are shocked at the sudden "honesty" of the baseball owners in general.

More and more players are joining in the chorus, "Say it isn't so."

Mr. Andy Messenger, the Cracker pitcher, and a good one, appeared yesterday and was shocked to find that the Southern league owners mean what they say about that $4,500 salary limit.

Until last season that amount would pay the salary of about six players. And now it is to pay the salary of 16. The players were used to the elastic contracts which owners in this league used to issue. I recall the owner who marked some of his contracts with the letters "B. L." He was a church man and he did this to save his conscience. "That stands for business lie," he said. The owners were usually giving the players more than the contracts called for.

Ball players all over the league are shocked. "I think the $4,500 salary limit is too little," Andy Messenger is quoted as saying. The players never thought the owners would refrain from cheating a bit.

The owners were worried about that themselves. They have already had one meeting at which the boldest cast their strength. It was a meeting to reassess themselves that there would be no cheating. A strict fine and a warning to one and all to holler "Copper" on the slightest suspicion of cheating, is contained in the agreement.

Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, of the Crackers, thinks the salary limit is a bit low. But all he can do is sympathize with the boys. "I'm sorry," he says, "but that's the rule."

And so the players, here and all over the league, are shocked and pained.

"Say it isn't so."

A GREAT RECORD.

Forrest Sale, the Kentucky basketball star, has established a record across three years of play which will stand for a very large number of years as the best of basketball records.

The Kentucky captain tallied 71 points in four games here during the conference tournament. This gave him an average of 17.34 points per game.

He played in 25 games during the season and scored 328 points. This included 135 field goals and 58 free throws. This gives him a scoring average for the season of 13 points per game.

Had he not been a substitute in his first year, the tall Kentuckian might have set an even greater record. He tallied just 62 points in his first season, playing only a short time in each game.

His scoring total in 1932 was 233 points. He boosted that away up to the 328 for the good year 1933.

The three-year record of the Sale lad is worth pasting in your book. It follows in field goals (FG), free throws attempted (FA), free throws made (FM), personal fouls (PF), and total points (TP):

1930-31.
FG	FA	FM	PF	TP
29	4	4	13	62
1931-32.
99	55	35	24	233
1932-33.
135	107	58	37	328
Totals	263	266	97	623

PROFESSORS OVER-EMPHASIZED.

Since the newspapers gave so much space to the Carnegie Foundation report of a couple of years ago which told of the over-emphasis of football, there seems to be no reason why the latest report of the Foundation should be neglected.

On the very day which saw Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the well-known educator, give to the nation his cure for the depression, Dr. Henry Sazalow, head of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, gave out a bulletin urging less emphasis on the professor and more on those who would be taught.

This is something of poetic justice. Because it seems that the professors have been fooling us for a long, long time. They joined in solemnly assuring us that the Carnegie report on football was exactly correct.

They pointed a finger at the Foundation, they even wagged it to make it more emphatic, and said that there was an incorruptible organization, and an infallible one. They had known all along that coaches got too much money, that football received too much attention and so forth. And now the Foundation turns against the professor. It seems that the professors have been over-emphasizing themselves, if the infallible Foundation be correct, at the expense of the students.

And so I hope that all the college presidents, who make up the Knights of the Round Table for the Southeastern conference, and all the professors under them will read Dr. Sazalow's Carnegie report. Let there be more emphasis of the student and not the professor.

THE COLUMBIA PROBE. Football has won another victory. The Columbia football team, which enjoyed an excellent and successful season under the direction of Lou Little, had the finger of suspicion pointed at it by one of those student publications, whose editor wanted to get his name in the papers.

The paper asked for an investigation. And Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the head of Columbia University, agreed and appointed the commission. The committee was an impartial one and it labored for six months. Last week it brought out its report.

The Columbia football team was found to be 100 per cent pure. There was nothing wrong with its personnel. There were no evils of subsidies, and so forth.

The Carnegie Foundation also came through with a report saying that football had been purified and was no longer to be regarded with suspicion.

This is most unusual—a successful team and one certified as pure in heart.

Things must be looking up.

Members of the Alpha class will leave Atlanta at 3:30 o'clock from the Wesley Memorial church.

Boat Challenge Plans Abandoned

ORILLA, Ont., March 1.—(AP)—The Orilla syndicate headed by Edward E. Webb, which had been considering for some time a challenge for the Hartswoth trophy, world speed boat trophy held by Gar Wood, today announced it had abandoned its plan for 1933 but might challenge in 1934.

LUCAS ACCEPTS TERMS OF REDS; ONLY FEW OUT

"Call to Arms" Changes Many Minds; Grove Turns New Leaf.

By Alan Gould,

Associated Press Sports Writer, NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—With the main legions baseball caravan deployed today on a widespread front, marking the full swing of another spring training campaign, only four of the sixteen clubs still appeared to be harassed seriously by holdouts in the rear guard.

So long as this list constitutes such negligible as the Ball Ruth and Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees; Wes Ferrell, of the Indians; Frank Frisch and Dazzy Vance, of the Cardinals, and Hack Wilson, of the Dodgers, it constitutes a major problem in front-office tactics.

George Esheway, who was be-goned on the Pacific coast into thinking it looked "like a breeze" for the Yankees again, not only has signed with Connie Mack but changed his tune completely and, he says, turned over a new leaf.

The holdouts, facing the longest may fare the worse when it comes down to the actual signing of documents, according to information obtained by the Associated Press from sources close to baseball's inner sanctums.

The dubious prospect for another season in the red, the tax problem and other worries have comelled to convince the managers they they must now trim expenses even more sharply than they first figured.

It seems certain now that the Yankees will make no compromise of fers to Ruth, Gehrig or their other star holdouts. Bill Dickey, Red Ruff-and, perhaps, Tony Lazzeri, are understanding that Colonel Jacob

Ruppert, when he makes his annual visit along about the middle of March to the Yankee camp at St. Petersburg, not only will make no overtures to Ruth but has no idea now of raising his original offer of $50,000 for a 1933 contract.

JUST $50,000.

With the salary of Commissioner

Landsis reduced voluntarily to $40,000

now and the scale dropping rapidly in every department of the business, the Babe will be lucky this year to draw as much as $30,000.

Brooklyn hasn't decided yet whether it will allow holdouts to report to the camp at Miami, according to Secretary Dave Driscoll. However, he added that Joseph A. Gilleanau, one of the owners, would go south and if necessary deal personally with such recalcitrant athletes as

Hank Wilson, Joe Stripp, Al Lopez

and Dan Taylor.

And the St. Louis Cardinals are the only other club with serious holdout problems remaining.

The Senators, Browns and White Sox may also have a few difficulties to straighten out, but they do not seem serious now. The Athletics, Red Sox,

Giants and Pirates have all signed their men.

MILO STEINBORN IS WINNER HERE

Milo Steinborn, German strong man, defeated Sun Jennings, Cherokee Indian, Wednesday night at the Georgia State Fair in Atlanta.

Steinborn lost the first fall when Sun applied a nerve lock to Steinborn's arm.

In the semi-final, White Hewitt,

Cardinal, was beaten by Tom Marvin with a series of body slams and body blocks.

Hewitt's fall was clocked at 52 minutes and the two wrestled on even terms during the remainder of the hour.

Governor Talmadge, Mayor Key and members of the state legislature and city council were present as guests of Promoter Harry Weber.

The Steinborn-Jennings match was one of the closest in recent months and neither grappler had to be warped for rough tactics. They broke clean at all times.

Steinborn took more punishment from the nerve lock than any other wrestler who has appeared here. It was some five minutes after Jennings secured the fall before he won the fall, in 21 minutes. Steinborn won the second fall in 15 minutes and the match in seven minutes.

Ruth's Daughter Is Chosen Queen

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Julia Ruth, the New York Yankee homecoming queen, was chosen Queen of the New York State Tourist Society here today. She will represent the Empire state in the annual festival of states' celebration on March 30-31.

The guests included the members of the families of the bride and bridegroom.

The bride and groom entered together and took their places at the improvised altar of palms, ferns and Easter lilies.

Costumes From Muse's Displayed In Brilliant Hadassah Revue

The Atlanta unit of Junior Hadassah scored another success, both socially and financially, at the brilliant fashion show and musical program presented Tuesday evening at the Atlanta Woman's Club. The revue was produced by Sam Miller, director of the Oglethorpe University Players and the array of smart feminine costumes displayed in the fashion show was supplied from the fifth floor equipment of the George Muse Clothing Company.

Miss Perle Bokitsky acted as general chairman of the project which served as the major fund-raising event of the year to be sponsored by Junior Hadassah. The proceeds will be used to meet the unit's quota of funds which will be used in the most important Palestinian undertakings.

The exquisite creations modeled by the attractive mannikins in the revue ran the complete gamut of costumes to be worn by maidens from the moon shopping tour, through the luncheon and tea hours, for dinner and the theater, to the formal occasions in which the girls dressed for dancing activities. Acting as models were Misses Rae Citron, Sarah Franklin, Agnes Nissenbaum, Annette Pomarance, Bootie Garrow, Jessie Sharrow, Imi Mink, Mrs. Sam E. Levy and Mrs. L. G. Levitas. The smart hats, selected to match each ensemble, were made by the milliners who sat at Muse's and presented the latest modes in spring wear.

For Town Wear. For town wear Miss Citron chose a modish silk suit of small brown and white checks, fashioned in three pieces and worn with black and white pieces of lace. A bright turban of white, brown and green, and a scarf to match were charming accessories.

For afternoon teas she displayed to advantage a shirred black chiffon gown, ornamented at the front of the corsage with clusters of green and white organdy flowers. The suit was composed of a matching black and white tammy suit, with a matching box coat, and a navy blue crepe gown, relieved by trimmings of embroidered batiste. With both costumes she wore blue tissue ruffles, a white straw hat, banded with daisies and finished with black belting ribbon formed an appropriate accessory.

Miss Mink displayed a becoming black crepe crinoline with a wide trimmings effect with an interesting white pique jacket, from the Muse lady's shop in the Henry Grady hotel.

The next meeting of Junior Hadassah will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday, March 5, at the Henry Grady hotel, at which time a complete report of the revue and fashion show will be made.

See the Gloss on Joan's Hair will find that those pouches under her eyes and her pasty look will vanish when she gets more sleep and rest. Keep her diet as you have outlined it. When Aunt Nancy took her down to have her hair bobbed, the woman in charge of the shop said: "I think I will try an egg shampoo."

First the hair dresser took four eggs and broke them into a bowl and beat them until they were well beaten. Then she took Joan over to the wash bowl and rinsed her hair thoroughly. Next she rubbed half of the egg mixture into the scalp and hair and massaged it vigorously. The hair was well rinsed.

The remainder of the egg mixture went on and was kept until the hair was all covered with it.

Then she well rinsed and the hair was dried with brushing, and not with artificial heat.

After this shampoo Joan's hair shone like spun silk. The hairdresser said that an occasional shampoo of this kind seemed to be beneficial. It added luster to the scalp. Of course part of the benefit came from the massaging and rubbing.

Joan enjoyed her "omelet shampoo," as she called it, and hurried to school to tell teacher all about it the next day.

"Puddings That Are Good and Cheap" lists such uses for eggs.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—Stocks made two rallies in a row today, edging upward toward close, finishing with an average gain that was slightly less than yesterday's.

With rails again leading, it looked as though passage of the bankruptcy bill by the house had given sentiment a fillip that was sufficient to offset further banking restrictions and evidence of trade curtailments incident thereto.

Covering shorts found supplies of steel plentiful than yesterday, with the result that extreme gains were moderate volume at 780,000 shares, was the smallest in a week. Bonds, except for United States governments, tended to steady. Federals yielded substantial fractions in rather active trading.

Improvement of a point or slightly more in the rule for such stocks as American Telephone, Case, Goodyear, American Tobacco, "B" and du Pont. Major fractions were added to the prices of American Can and Southwestern Pacific, among others. W. T. Grant rallied on authorization of a regular 25-cent dividend.

For the second market emphasized the demands being placed on New York for funds in this time of unusual out-of-town needs. Bankers' acceptance rates were lifted by the large amount of 1 per cent, while call money, after renewing at the familiar 1 per cent, later rose to 2, the first advance in more than a year.

Financial conditions around the New York reloaning rate, reflecting scarcity of member bank balances at the reserve. Extra burdens were placed on local banks by the March 1 requirements, which normally are among the largest of the year.

Wall Street assumes the new bankruptcy bill will bring some reloaning reorganizations, as distinguished from receiverships, and the reaction to this measure in financial circles is favorable.

Iron Age said a decrease in steel production to 17 per cent of capacity against 19 per cent a week ago was generally ascribed to this factor, while it is probable that the weekly reports on construction figures also affected thereby, although last week included Washington's birthday.

Siphoning of Money

Causes Rate Increase

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP)—Siphoning of money from the liquid New York market into interior cities brought a sharp increase in money rates today.

The call loan rate on the stock exchange was boosted from one to two per cent; the federal reserve advanced its buying rate on acceptances a similar amount, and other rates moved upward in like proportion.

The call loan acceptance rates up to 90 days are 2 1/4 to 2 1/8; on 120 days, 2 3/8 to 2 1/4, and on 150 to 180 days, 2 5/8 to 2 1/2.

FURTHER DROP SHOWN IN FERTILIZER TAGS

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—(AP)—A continued decrease in the number of fertilizers tags sold in the 10 principal growing states was reported today in a statement by Henry G. Hester, secretary treasurer of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

For the first seven months of the current cotton season, August, 1932, through February, 1933, official reports from the agricultural bureaus and state boards showed a total of 468,016 tons sold, a decrease of 2,085 tons as compared with last season, 503,000 tons less than two years ago and 1,102,827 tons less than three years ago.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON—Wall Street advises helpful sentiment on the stock exchange with the market improving. Transatlantic issues, industrial and general, covering operations caused an advance in gold mining issues and Japanese and German bonds. The market closed quiet.

PARIS—The House improved on the parliament vote of confidence in the present government and strengthening Wall Street reports. The opening was firm with trading calm, and the market closed firm.

BERLIN—Prices on the boorse reacted favorably to President von Hindenburg's emergency decree. The closing was firm.

CERMAK TO LIVE, DOCTORS REPORT

Chicagoan Put in Oxygen Chamber Despite Improving Condition.

MIAMI, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Mayo Anton Cermak slept peacefully in a specially constructed oxygen chamber while his physicians issued optimistic statements on his condition.

The Chicago executive was moved into the chamber from his hospital room tonight, soon after his doctors predicted he would live "barring unforeseen circumstances."

The oxygen chamber, a nine by nine foot room, was built in New York by Mayo. Physicians said earlier today they probably would not use it, but tonight they ordered their patient transferred to the chamber to relieve strain on his lungs.

Air containing 50 per cent oxygen was pumped into the chamber, the third patient rested comfortably. His doctors said the transfer to the air chamber was not an indication that he had suffered a setback. Just before he was moved, the mayor had glucose injected into his veins. That nourishment was needed, physicians said, because food taken by mouth has not been sufficient to sustain the patient.

An X-ray examination of Mayor Cermak's chest tonight showed the pulmonary congestion virtually cleared from the right lung, and revealed no congestion of fluids or pus in other chest organs, Dr. Frank Jirka announced.

Encouraged by improvement in the mayor's condition, Dr. Karl A. Meyer, who has attended him for nearly two weeks, left tonight for Chicago.

"Mayor Cermak definitely is on the upgrade now," said Dr. Frederick Tice, of Chicago, one of five doctors who have attended him. "The Chicago mayor who has been in the shadow of death since Zangara shot him with a bullet intended for President-elect Roosevelt."

"Barring unforeseen circumstances, we now can say he will recover," Dr. Tice said.

Dr. E. C. Nichols, of Miami, who three weeks ago was in somewhat less optimistic than other attending physicians, said the patient had a "reasonable chance to live."

It was felt that with good buying appreciation in bank stocks there was a reasonable expectation for betterment in other directions in the securities markets.

Sentiment with regard to the bank shares also was helped by the declaration of the regular dividend by the Guaranty Trust Company and announcement of the regular payment by the Chase National bank.

There had been rumors recently of dividend reductions by banking institutions. The regular payments announced today therefore had a stimulating influence on the bank stock market.

National City Bank stock sold off in the late dealings.
